
Take-Homes

Comments from participants at
INSA's prior conferences

Comments from those in the education sector

- It enabled us to put in place good routines for the school, backing it up with research.
 - It set the groundwork for our work at school, and with parents, and to help authorities understand the breadth of this problem.
 - The practical information has given us food for thought concerning possible improvements in our care structure at school.
 - As absence coordinator, I found a lot of interesting things I can start with.
 - It gave me a better idea of how data can be used to reduce absenteeism.
 - We are developing a plan for how our school can prevent absence and we got a lot of help in this work.
-

Comments from helping professionals

- Information about a lot of programs that are starting to get kids back on track.
 - The conference helped me see the total picture in cases of school absenteeism.
 - It helped me get a better grip of the current literature.
 - It has given me a lot of inspiration and ideas in my work with children and a god network both in and outside my home country.
 - I got a lot of new ideas to implement in my work as practitioner.
 - Following the conference I have increased confidence, motivation, and compassion in the work that I do.
-

Comments from researchers and academics

- This conference helped me meet and form collaborations with several researchers I would otherwise not easily have connected with.
 - I made a lot of new contacts that are really helpful for my research work.
 - All in all, this conference was important in shaping my future research plans.
 - It helped me to take part in new research.
 - It influenced my thinking about research that needs to be done.
 - It introduced me to a new field of research.
-

Comments from those in management & policy

- I got new ideas about how I can work with my team and the children.
 - Our country has really moved ahead with a new focus on school attendance since many of us attended the Conference in Oslo.
 - I'm writing policy based on what I learned.
 - It has given me a wider understanding of how different countries are dealing with school attendance problems.
 - I got a very good overview of the field.
 - We have to work smarter within the systems we already have in place in our schools in my municipality.
-

Comments from students & early career researchers

- I'm thinking systematically.
 - It offered me a solid platform to build on.
 - Many ideas how to continue my work. Inspiration.
 - It has inspired me and broadened my perspective on school absenteeism.
-

Comments from various participants

- The heartwarming messages from parents and students was motivating.
 - Solid update on the goings-on in many sub-fields.
 - The connection between science and practice is really helpful.
 - A lot of ideas about prevention.
 - The practical information and advice have given me food for thought.
 - Update, new ideas, new friends....
-

Register for INSA's 2022 Conference before May 31st to take advantage of Early Bird registration

Conference Website

International Network
for School Attendance
