

INSA Call for Papers

Title of Special Section: Continuing school during and after prolonged Absenteeism

Deadline: February 2021. In this special section, only 5 article slots are available.

Managing Editors: Carolyn Gentle-Genitty, PhD | Gil Keppens, PhD | Glenn Melvin, PhD

The International Network for School Attendance (INSA) in collaboration with Continuity in Education is hosting a call for papers. INSA's Institutional mission is to promote school attendance and respond to school attendance problems. It aims to compile, generate, evaluate, and disseminate information, assessment, and intervention strategies. This Special section focuses on activities or studies which examine how and what can be done to support students continuing their schooling and development while or after facing varied difficulties or disruptions in their lives. This includes investigations on how school attendance can be classified and identified and which approaches can be applied for the prevention and management of school attendance problems. Disruptions may include but not limited to medical (psychological or other), behavioural, legal, criminal, parental, environmental, and or school policy/ practice.

Description: Manuscripts are invited on activities or studies supporting continuity in school and development of young people facing some kind of difficulties or disruptions in their life. See article types HERE. It is our intention to draw authors and researchers from many different disciplines on school attendance problems (truancy, school refusal, school withdrawal, etc.), absenteeism, truancy, and related fields.

Note to Authors: Only a limited number of submissions will be accepted. Manuscripts will be accepted on a rolling submission. Types of articles: Research articles: 8000 words, Practice and intervention: 8000 words, and Theoretical/methodological: 6000 words. Please submit early. Articles will be peer reviewed and notifications sent of submission acceptance. Upon final acceptance manuscripts will be published in CiE open access Journal. Articles will be published as open access under a CC BY 4.0 license (<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/>). There is no cost for publication. Accepted manuscripts will be published during 2021.

To submit a manuscript, authors are required create an account on the CiE website, review the author guidelines, and follow the steps for article submission (CiE also provides different writing templates). Remember to notify, in the cover letter of your submission that you are submitting for the Special section of INSA 'continuing school during and after prolonged absenteeism'.
